

"We needed support, security, confidence and a quality product that met all our requirements"

"The management of our virtual platform was getting more complicated, partly because of moodle updates"

ADDIMA is a project with about fifteen years of experience that aims to disseminate, investigate and expand resilience knowledge and promotion

AddimaAddima and evolCampus LMS

It is intended for professionals, teams, individuals and also people who are approaching this practice. Addima offers different work areas, including professional training, therapeutic intervention and research and investigation related to resilience.

"Change from Moodle to evolCampus to improve in security and peace of mind"

After several years relying on Moodle, the elearning platform change was caused by the complexity in the administration of the tool. ADDIMA's commitment to self-management in almost all its tasks prompted them to control each and every Moodle process, both as users and administrators, however the continuous updates of the platform and the increasingly demanding requirements of FUNDAE They made them start looking for another platform.

In principle, to embrace change by using a tool that was working really good and whose operation was optimal was not an easy decision. But at certain moments, demotivation was so high due to the problems of operation of the platform, and the "need for support, security and tranquility. Apart from the need of a quality product that meets all the requirements and permits to continue creating and innovating in the trainings". All these things were key to start using evolCampus.

"evolCampus as a e-learning platform to improve the quality of the courses"

One of the reasons why ADDIMA chose evolCampus after a big research on the Internet and comparing several platforms was the possibility to fully try the platform for free for some days to check the operation. Although at first migrating to a payment platform could be annoying, it was offset, by all the saved hours invested in learning and setting the previous tool. "The price far exceeded the price to be paid by evolCampus".

ADDIMA now focuses its goals on expanding the training offer, on innovating its procedures and continuing to use evolCampus as a tool for working with teams.

ADDIMA's experience with evolCampus is an example that happens everyday, in which users of free LMS platforms face complex tool management operations without any help. If you are in that situation, discover a new concept of online training platform.
