

Fedrigoni Centralizes Integration With Boomi To Power Digital Transformation

Premium Italian paper company connects business, data, and processes with the Boomi Enterprise Platform and Syscons to create a centralized and efficient IT landscape.

“Thanks to the Boomi platform and Syscons’ support, we were finally able to centralize and manage our data flows, transforming a complex IT landscape into an agile and monitorable ecosystem. This allowed us to significantly accelerate our digital transformation and make more informed, real-time decisions.”

Business goals

Fedrigoni is a historic Italian company that specializes in the production of specialty papers for luxury packaging and creative communication, labels, and self-adhesive and RFID materials. With a presence in 28 countries and 73 facilities, the Group sells and distributes over 25,000 products in 132 countries. Over the years, Fedrigoni has expanded its international presence through 16 acquisitions and partnerships.

From an IT perspective, the legacy of this acquisition chain was a Babel of heterogeneous systems, none of which natively communicated with each other. The company’s goal was bold: to build a modern infrastructure capable of connecting everything – from ERP to the factory floor, from cloud platforms to next-generation apps.

Technology challenges

Fedrigoni’s IT ecosystem was complex due to organic growth and multiple acquisitions over time. The company’s application landscape was extremely fragmented, with a mix of on-premises and cloud solutions that were hard to harmonize. Its array of custom, ad hoc integrations were not scalable and were difficult to monitor, and there was no centralized governance.

Fedrigoni also lacked the ability to quickly adopt and integrate new platforms. This had created a plethora of more than 30 siloed applications, including a dozen different ERP systems such as SAP ECC, Microsoft Dynamics 365, Alyante by TeamSystem, Microsoft Navision, and CEGID. The company wanted to connect systems including Adobe Commerce (Magento), Akeneo, Jaggaer One, Kyriba Treasury, Microsoft Power BI, Microsoft SharePoint, Quarta EVO QMS, SugarCRM, Zendesk, and many other applications.

How Boomi helped

Leveraging its expertise in complex integration projects, Syscons supported Fedrigoni in adopting and implementing the Boomi Enterprise Platform. With its smart connectors and low-code logic, Boomi provided Fedrigoni with the tools to rapidly develop interfaces, reducing errors and simplifying maintenance.

Boomi Integration enabled the rapid integration of diverse applications and systems, significantly improving governance and the ability to monitor information exchanges. A large number of business processes, from flows between ERP and production to customer and partner relationships, have been progressively orchestrated in a seamless, automated, and transparent manner.

In less than three years, over 30 systems have been integrated, including a dozen ERP systems. The Boomi platform acts as the “glue” between Fedrigoni’s worlds, helping the company manage its diverse technology infrastructure.

Results & business outcomes

The adoption of Boomi marked a turning point for Fedrigoni. The company was able to immediately reap the benefits of rapid integration, governance, and monitoring.

Thanks to Boomi’s control dashboards, the processes integrated by Syscons are now more scalable, efficient, and high-performing. This has enabled Fedrigoni to accelerate its digital transformation journey, achieving better management and scalability of adopted solutions, as well as greater centralization and optimization of operational flows.

For IT, Boomi ensures centralized monitoring of the company’s application portfolio and traffic flows, preventing bottlenecks and data loss and ensuring information reliability.
