Espresso Republic had actually already started development on this project with another developer before coming to us. There were many things that were incorrectly developed and it was best to just rebuild the website from scratch after reviewing what the previous developer had done. We went to work and did what we do best. We developed a custom theme based off the design they provided us and integrated it with WooCommerce and WooSubscriptions (developed a custom calculator for this too). In addition to this, we also developed a Wholesaler feature for them approve potential Wholesalers.
