

FUCER website

FUCER is a Recreation Center that makes available the national and international cooperative movement with all the facilities and infrastructures necessary to carry out family and business activities.

We worked together to [develop the new FUCER website(<https://www.rootstack.com/en/services/web-software-development>)], the previous site was not friendly, with too much information on the home page and without site management. The new FUCER design has user management by roles and permissions, galleries and events with categories and different forms to request affiliation and contact in order to attract more users to visit the Recreation Center and get to know more about their facilities and activities rooms. In addition, the Center has different types of affiliations in which the user can request their membership from the website.

Client

Acodeco

Project information

Case highlight

- Responsive web design
- Integration with social networks and google maps
- Custom membership form

URL

<http://www.fucerpanama.com/>