Pharmaceuticals

A global pharmaceutical intelligence provider modernized its security readiness by integrating jurisdiction-specific breach requirements into a repeatable response engine—cutting investigation delays and enabling faster, compliant decisions across its international operations.

Business Outcomes

- Automated response playbooks aligned with regulatory compliance
- Reduced manual effort and eliminated inconsistent workflows
- Real-time visibility and centralized coordination across global teams

"We bought BreachRx to automate the process and remove the manual effort that can get lost when we've got multiple things going on."
