

Harris & Hoole

Gone are the days your barista has to remember your favourite brew! Harris & Hoole's POS system recognises the customer and shows the barista a photo together with their regular order. Powering the additional ordering functionality is omniBasket.

Omnico provides Harris & Hoole with the technology to enable their point-of-sale system to order additional drinks or food. Harris & Hoole is unique in that it uses a mobile app that tells the coffee shops POS system who that customer is and what their favourite order is. A photo of that customer appears on the POS terminal telling the cashier what they would like. If all they want is their favourite then the amount is deducted from the payment app, however, if they want to order something else, an alternative or a food item as well, then omniBasket powers their POS to add this. Bringing great coffee to the high street Harris + Hoole began 3 years ago with a partnership which combined the specialist coffee expertise of Taylor St Baristas with the high street knowledge of Tesco.
