Alan J. Miller started the company in 1976 with just four employees, primarily focusing on masonry and excavation services. Years of hard work and persistence paid off not only financially, but also in solid experience, and by 2001 the company evolved into a full service general contracting firm, offering residential, commercial, utility, demolition, and civil construction services of all kinds. With son Patrick Miller on board, the company incorporated in 2003 and was renamed the Miller Contracting Group. Today they employ 48 full time workers and maintain their own fleet of more than 75 pieces of state of the art heavy equipment. Thanks guys, for choosing SharpeSoft Estimator!
