

Southend Remedy Tea Shop Website Design

Project Description

Martin & Patricia needed a website to showcase and advertise their Remedy tea Shop. They have opened the tea shop in Southend High Street and were keen to stand out from the local cafes and coffee shops in town. When we first spoke to them regarding building their website, they had already had 3 people try to build the website, but were not happy with the quality of the work that had been done for them by their past web designers. We took the time to understand exactly what they wanted from their website and the look and feel that they want too, which was very important to them.
