Training and Learning Solutions

A U.S. based Air Force Base received special funding to provide information technology educational tutoring and professional development training to its entire community. Affigent was awarded the contract to provide active duty, reserve and retired airmen, officers, and their families with classroom and online training. Training included technology training programs to enhance individual skills, along with skills development for professional certifications, web design and office automation. Affigent managed classroom and web-based training, distribution of licenses for home-based learning, and custom classes for summer camp programs. Lastly, Affigent worked closely with the base's public affairs office to market and promote the program for a participation rate that exceeded established program goals. The five-year program enhanced quality of life for the community, improved capabilities for active duty personnel and enhanced opportunities for retiring service members.
