FLATWORLD CREATED A CUSTOM THEME PACKAGE FOR A TRAINING COURSE PROVIDER

The Client

The client is a well-known provider of training courses to students across Australia. They have their own range of courses which are nationally accredited, and they also partner with other organizations in different areas of vocational training and across various industries. They also provide a student enrollment service on behalf of the training partners.

The Requirement

The client was looking for a reliable partner who could create custom theme packages for their Moodle website which could be easily switched. They were also looking for a feature which could detect the role of the user if they are a student or an admin.

The Challenges

Our team of software developers faced several challenges while implementing the project for the client, which included -

+ The client was looking for a unique solution which was different from other solutions existing in the market
+ The client was looking for a feature on the theme which would automatically detect if the user belongs to the Student Role or the Admin Role and switch the theme

Our Solution

After analyzing the requirements of the client and the existing systems in place, our expert and experienced team of software developers devised the following plan -

We created a customized theme package which could be easily switched seamlessly on the client's Moodle website. It was built using HTML, CSS, and a little bit of PHP.

+ We provided the feature which the client was looking for. The theme would detect the type of user (Student or Admin).
+ The customized theme was built over the Evolved Theme which was selected by the client and had the functionalities of the parent theme.

The Result

The client was happy to see the result, not only in terms of the quality of the theme created but also its cost-effectiveness. The client was so impressed with our team that they even promised to outsource their future projects to us.

Outsource Custom Theme Package Development Services to Us

Flatworld Solutions has been a leading provider of customized theme package development and a host of other software development services to its global clientele. We have been in the industry for over 16 years now and have gained enough experience of working with some of the latest technologies over the years. We also have a data science team onboard who help in incorporating artificial intelligence and machine learning algorithms into the software we develop and make them intelligent.

If you are looking for a similar solution or have any other software development or mobile app development requirement, get in touch with us today!