

Credit Saison achieves digital transformation (DX) goals with Platform Equinix[®]

80% of mission-critical financial services migrated to the cloud to maximize flexibility, agility and speed for growth

Case Study

Japan’s leading payments provider optimizes digital platforms, maximizes cloud services and enables its DX vision to become a comprehensive life services group focusing on financial services.

Challenge

Riding on its successful payments business, Credit Saison expanded to include leasing, finance and real estate as part of its service portfolio. To drive its growth strategy forward, the company developed its Credit Saison Digital Transformation (CSDX) Vision—a strategy to transform customer experiences (CX), employee experiences (EX) and digital ecosystems. However, its rigid infrastructure limited cloud utilization, slowed network connectivity and restricted its advancement into the digital age with CSDX.

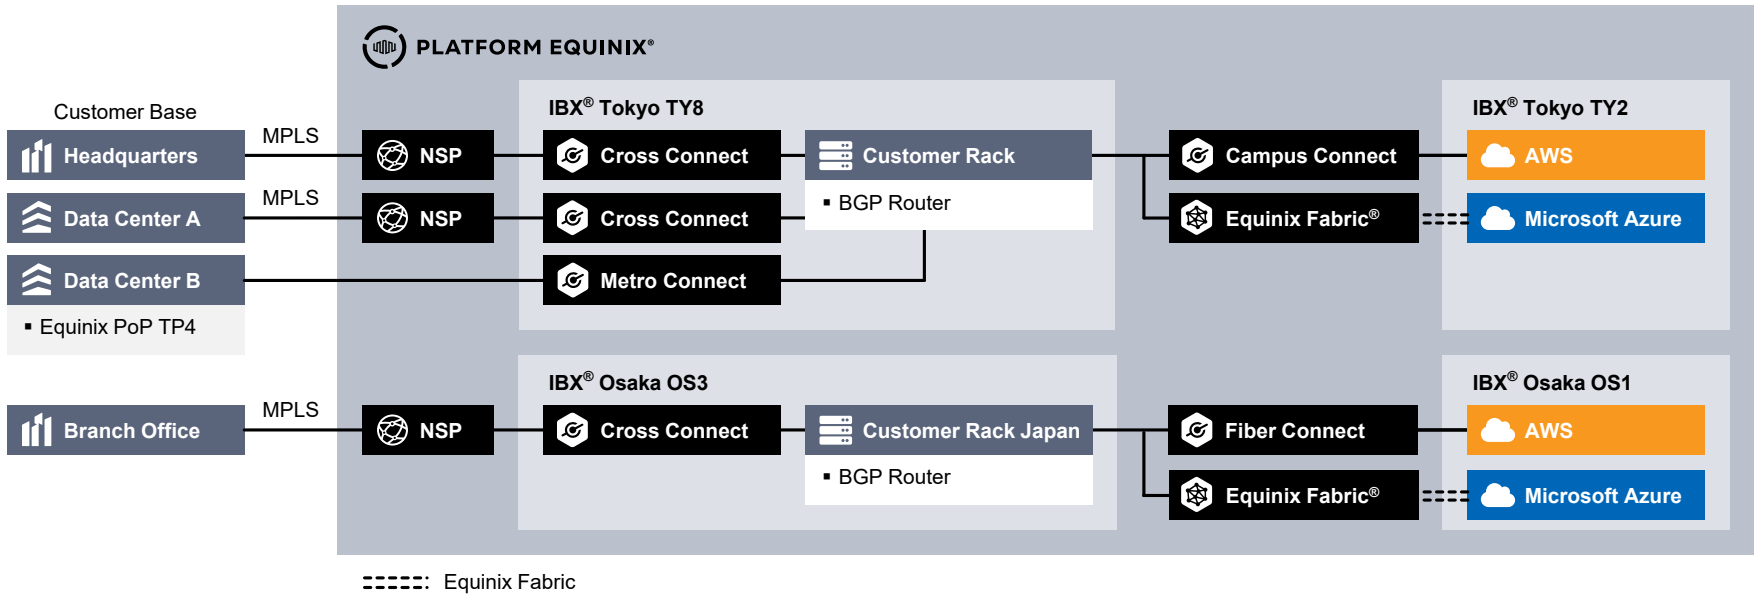

Solution

Credit Saison turned to Equinix IBX data centers to bring its CSDX vision to life and increase cloud utilization. The IBX facilities also act as network hubs to provide multiple access points.

Platform Equinix offers secure direct connectivity to Credit Saison’s customers in the same IBX, supports interconnection with AWS® and enables software-defined connections with other public cloud services. Additionally, high-speed closed-circuit connectivity between Credit Saison’s on-premises, customer and partner infrastructures enhances efficiency further.

The company set up a similar network in Osaka to facilitate availability and connections for its branch. Replacing private dedicated lines with the power of interconnectivity provides high-speed, cost-efficient connections that ensure reliability and business continuity while dealing with challenging situations.

The simplified global network with Equinix Fabric, colocation services and EVP-LAN delivers cost-efficient, high-speed connectivity.
