CHALLENGES

When Jonathan Miller was looking to make a change, he realized what he needed the most was the ability to operate his anytime, anywhere. After all, it's hard to take a sabbatical or time off if you're needed in the office every day. Being mobile was key.

Having redundant backup for client and company data was also of paramount importance. These contingency plans needed to be automated and as fail-safe as possible.

Most of all, whatever technology solution was presented - it needed not only to work systematically, but it needed to work financially.

SOLUTIONS

When Cloudnine Realtime partnered with Jonathan Miller CPA, both parties were excited about what the cloud could do for the firm's growth.

The benefits paid off immediately. Jonathan had 2 computers die this past April, during tax season. A crisis for any business was only a 2 hour hiccup for Jonathan's CPA firm. All he had to do was go buy another desktop , plug it in - and log into the cloud.

Now, he experiences the power of anytime, anywhere access. He recently traveled to Europe on a cruise and had complete access to staff and clients throughout his vacation.

"My efficiency has improved and my processes have been streamlined," Miller said. "Sharing files with my staff is simple. I no longer need to upgrade and install QuickBooks, Microsoft programs, or other software. Everything is automatically handled by Cloudnine."

"Never having to worry about getting a bill when there is a problem to be fixed is a huge relief and helps keep the strain off my cash flow."
