CHALLENGE & SOLUTIONS

One of the most common challenges faced by developers is the difference between their goals and their ability to reach those goals. Time, resources, and skills are often inadequate for an ambitious project, and Joseph Orjinta found himself facing a skills gap while working on an application for tracking and monitoring sales and stock for manufacturing firms. The goals for the project were clear, but it didn't seem that his team would be able to achieve them without compromising their vision.

Orjinta turned to Syncfusion controls as a solution. Syncfusion's controls proved easy to use, allowing the Blualpha team to quickly create the features they needed. When challenges arose, Syncfusion support was able to quickly get them back on track.

With Syncfusion, Orjinta's team was able to streamline development and overcome their skills gap. They were able to leverage an array of Syncfusion controls, including Syncfusion's unparalleled suite of Xamarin controls and the powerful Syncfusion Reporting Platform, to produce exactly the application they set out to make.
