The Challenge

The CRM Team was challenged by the business to drive customers into Halfords Autocenters with spare capacity in the local area.

The team also wanted to maximize their campaign performance click through rates, while minimizing their unsubscribe rates. Their plan was as follows:

1. Exceed email engagement benchmarks using a highly localized content approach.

Halfords operate a nationwide network of Autocenters and often use generic content for all areas. By looking for a way to tailor their emails more to the local area, the team hoped to boost the overall engagement for each campaign.

2. Drive incremental bookings in underutilized garages across the Halfords network.

The team needed a way to divert existing customers to use a different, less busy one. This would give a dual advantage - the customer would get an appointment sooner and the quieter garage would get more business.

“Developing a relationship between the customer and their local Autocenter is key to the long-term success of our SMR campaigns, and Liveclicker enables the team to present geo-location content in new and engaging ways”

Matt Storey, CRM Manager, Halfords

The Road to Success

Combining Marigold Engage+ with Liveclicker allowed the CRM team to create richly personalized emails. They fused local personality with dynamic, location based offers to make each email feel like they were built for an audience of one.

The solution was built with these components working in harmony:

Personalization with Local Personality

Halfords wanted their emails to have as much personality as possible, and really have the recipients feel as if they were receiving an email from the local team.

The name and details of the customer's nearby garage were displayed above the fold and trust was built with the reader by conveying, in copy, the skills of the technicians they employ and the quality of the parts they use.

Availability Based Strategy

The focus of the campaign was always on driving customers to book at centers which had been identified as under-utilized.

This also meant there were more convenient time slots available to book immediately. This was a real win/win for Halfords and for their customers.

Dynamic Benefits & Offers

The team built out emails with the latest offers and available services offered at their local center combined with a section on the key benefits of choosing Halfords.

Location Based Content

The team used Liveclicker's capabilities to display highly personalized content, based on the location data, within the header of each customer email.
