The Challenge: Paper Trails, Sleepless Nights, & a Growing Sense of Risk

Before implementing Navigate360 Behavior Case Manager and CSTAG Training, Berea City Schools faced a fragmented and high-risk threat assessment process. Their multidisciplinary teams—comprising of school psychologists, administrators, and school resource officers (SROs)—were working from physical binders with no centralized documentation, no shared visibility, and no accountability for follow-up actions.

The pressure was mounting. The lack of secure documentation not only increased liability but also hindered the district’s ability to support students at risk.

“I was constantly worried—are we missing something? Are we doing enough?” Lori recalls.

“And the truth is, we didn’t know, because we had no way to track it.”

“ We were literally sleeping with one eye open. We had no real system, just binders and hope. ”

- Lori Sancin, Director of Pupil Services

The Solution: A Unified, Digital Process for Managing Student Threats

Berea City Schools adopted Navigate360 Behavioral Case Manager and Threat Assessment Training as part of a strategic effort to build a proactive, repeatable, and evidence-based approach to student well-being.

The implementation team worked with Navigate360 to customize their workflow within the platform, integrating their forms, protocols, and procedures. This allowed them to preserve what already worked while upgrading their system with digital tracking, notifications, and case visibility.

With training from Navigate360's experts, Berea's teams were equipped to use the system with confidence. Cases could now be securely managed, tracked, and followed through from start to finish—ensuring every concern was seen, discussed, and addressed.

“ What I love is that we didn't have to change everything—we enhanced what we had and made it consistent. Now, everything's in one place. ”

The Results: Confidence, Accountability, & a Culture of Care

“I finally feel like we’re doing right by our students and our staff,” Lori says. “We know who’s responsible for what, and we can go back and see the full history.”

With automated alerts, built-in follow-up, and secure role-based access, Behavioral Case Manager has helped Berea reduce liability, enhance communication among teams, and support a more consistent response to student concerns.

The impact isn’t just procedural—it’s cultural.

“We’ve moved from a reactive mindset to a proactive one. Our teams feel supported. Our students feel seen.”

“ We finally have a system that supports the work we were trying so hard to do. Navigate360 gave us clarity, confidence, and control. ”

- Lori Sancin, Director of Pupil Services,
Berea City Schools

Now that Berea has a reliable system in place, the district is exploring how to leverage data to drive future improvements in school climate, mental health, and violence prevention.

“The data is the next frontier,” Lori says. “We’re excited to start identifying patterns and getting ahead of things before they escalate.”
