

Uncovering Corruption

Customer: A non-governmental organization

Solution: NGOs often serve as watchdogs of democracy, focusing on dirty connections between the government and the private sector. Sometimes it is possible to uncover a conspiracy simply by putting all the open data together and seeing what pops out. Making use of leaked or confidential data is also no problem at all. It is possible to combine leaked and confidential data with open data and uncover the truth behind the curtains.