Challenges

- Lacked a simple way to complete foreign travel reports, clearance verifications, and applications
- Needed to interface with different internal groups (employees, recruiters, and program managers) without giving everyone access to everything
- DIY data migration resulted in corrupted backend data
- Required a more robust and reliable commercial solution for data storage and management

Results

- Centralized all records in one place with a Google-like, searchable interface
- Limited access to sensitive information to specific groups or individuals
- Controlled access levels, determining who can view versus edit documents
- Fast and seamless purchase and onboarding process
- Time-saving processes across the organization

"Being able to do this with a few clicks really helps. It saves a lot of time on both my side and the employees' side. Sign In Solutions is becoming the foundation of how our employees interact."

Compliance: Don't do it yourself

MicroHealth had outgrown their patchwork of DIY solutions and needed a more robust system after experiencing data issues during a migration.

"During a recent 'DIY' data migration, some of our backend data was corrupted. Though nothing was compromised, it did highlight the need for a robust, reliable commercial solution of some kind. The incident is what ultimately pushed us to find Sign In Solutions," explained Daniel, Facility Security Officer at MicroHealth.

MicroHealth needed a solution that would allow them to cut through the noise and provide their employees, contractors, and customers with the right information while maintaining the utmost security and compliance.

The foundation for employee interaction

Implementing Sign In Solutions provided MicroHealth with a reliable commercial solution for data storage and time-saving processes throughout the organization. The platform's intuitive interface was a key factor in their decision.

"The factors that really sealed the deal were the simple, intuitive interface. It's not outdated or clunky, as so many are. The other big reason is Sign In Solutions' ability to keep up with changes in the industry faster than any other comparable software provider." -

The all-in-one customizable security interface ensured that only authorized personnel could access sensitive information, enhancing both security and compliance across the organization.

Enhancing workflow efficiency

Sign In Solutions has become central to MicroHealth's daily operations, providing significant efficiency improvements.

"Being able to do this with a few clicks really helps. It saves a lot of time on both my side and the employees' side. Sign In Solutions is becoming the foundation of how our employees interact," noted Daniel.

Sign In Solutions has become central to MicroHealth's daily operations, providing significant efficiency improvements.

The solution has helped MicroHealth save time and increase transparency for all stakeholders, both internal and external. The MicroHealth team "appreciated the accessibility of help and immediate feedback when it was needed. It's been a great experience, and we're happy with the product overall."

"Sign In Solutions is so comprehensive and intuitive, I know that if I was unexpectedly unable to fulfill my role, someone else could come in immediately and pick up the job."
