What were the challenges you had before using StealthSeminar?

My name is Tyson Zahner and I have an online marketing and coaching company.

Our main frustration was the inconsistencies with other webinar platforms and the lack of customer service we had experienced.

These issues hindered our ability to run effective webinars and to consistently reach our audience.

Did you have any concerns about using StealthSeminar?

The only doubts that I had about moving forward with StealthSeminar were with transferring my content over to a totally new platform.

I had some concerns about how it would integrate with my existing contact management system and whether it would all work together.

Every time I had any kind of bump in the road or question, the StealthSeminar team was able to quickly show me how to fix it or tell me what the answer was.

In many cases, they would just say, "Hey. We'll write a quick little CSS script to make the page look exactly the way you want," or "We'll do this little tech thing to make the software behave exactly the way you want."

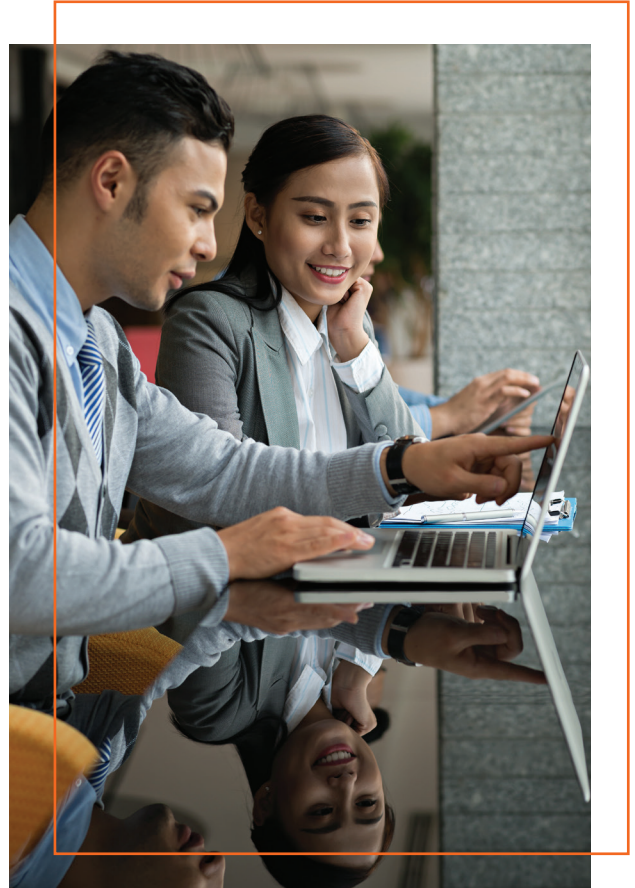

Once I realized that I could expect that level of service and commitment, I was sold. I'm pretty sure I'll never use another webinar company again!

How did StealthSeminar help you?

Every time we wanted a page to look a certain way, StealthSeminar was there to help us. Anytime there was a feature that we couldn't find, or couldn't figure out, they would show us how to make it work.

Often, they would say, "Hey. Give us your feedback, send in a request for this feature, and we'll see if we can build it into the platform."

Many of those features I've requested have been built into the software. I haven't experienced any other webinar software provider that really listens to their customers the way that StealthSeminar has listened to me.

Would you recommend StealthSeminar?

First of all, I believe StealthSeminar has a trial period so that you can give them a shot with no obligation.

Take a free trial of StealthSeminar and also take a free trial of one of their competitors. I would almost bet my own money that you're going to like StealthSeminar better!

I have personally tried at least three other webinar platforms over the past 10 years. There hasn't been any other webinar platform that has given me the experience and gratification that I've had using StealthSeminar.
