Numerical Algorithms Group

The Numerical Algorithms Group (NAG) delivers trusted, high quality numerical computing software and high performance computing (HPC) services. Their website is primarily used as an information portal and a place to download the latest version of their software.

Webcurl worked closely with the designers of NAG to migrate their Microsoft ASP website to the Drupal framework. A challenge whilst implementing the site was the data migration element. NAG have published many thousands of articles and manuals to their website. Webcurl managed to organise their existing documents into six distinct content types and successfully import over 3000 items.

Webcurl have since automated the addition of new content when software release information is generated by their back office systems.
