

FLATWORLD SOLUTIONS PROVIDED XML CONVERSION SERVICES TO A NORWEGIAN ACADEMIC PUBLISHING CLIENT

The Client

Our client is an independently operated academic publisher from Norway. They are recognized for publishing journals and non-fiction publications.

Client Requirements

Flatworld was contacted by the client who wanted XML conversion services at an affordable rate and a tight deadline. Since multiple restrictions played out in the project. It presented opportunity for our team to use the best approach to deliver on promise.

Client Challenges

During the project, following challenges were a letdown that resulted in the client not finding the solution from other providers. The challenges were as follows -

- + The client's need spanned just 3 months. Since the client's need fell short of the minimum requirement (6 months or more) criteria, they were dejected by most providers
- + The document type definition requirement and time definition were as per the client's need

FWS' Solution

Flatworld Solutions ran a pilot contract involving one resource to process 10 pages in a day. The outcome was a success and the client insisted to upgrade the contract on a full-time basis. We allocated 30 resources to complete 100000 pages. The milestones were duly met with the delivery of 8000 pages per week until completion.

Our Process

The files downloaded from the FTP was in Word and PDF format. The converted the files into XML format using schema and used a client customized tool to perform the task.

The Results

With the completion of the project, we surveyed the client to gauge their satisfaction with the service levels and the quality of the outcome. The client rated us positively and approved our service quality. They expressed praise for completing the project within the stipulated time without slack in the quality.
