SUMMER 2025
Customer Success Report

Desk Booking Software Category

The days of each employee having their own workstation have passed us by. Because employees work from home and only come to the office occasionally, having each employee use their own desk is not feasible. Using Desk Booking applications, employees can now easily rent a workspace on the go and as needed.

Employers benefit from using desk booking software because it allows them to monitor the utilization of workspaces and helps in making adjustments to space allocation as and when needed. In today's office, desk booking apps have become an indispensable tool as employers look to accommodate more staff with fewer dedicated workspaces and trim real estate costs.

ABOUT OFFICESPACE SOFTWARE

OfficeSpace is the platform of choice for companies trying to manage all the current disruption in the workplace. It simplifies everything from space management and social distancing to desk booking and employee requests. The problem with traditional workplace management solutions is that they leave you with limited options when it comes to viewing floor plans, testing seating arrangements, coordinating shifts, managing requests, and so on. This means you're forced to offer limited options to your employees as well. To create a better place for everyone, you need three things: a more innovative platform, a more intuitive experience, and a more invested...
