Customer Success Report

Collaborative Whiteboard Software Category

Collaborative whiteboard software offers an open, singular and shared space for design where collaborators can concurrently share content and make edits from their devices. The tool is similar to a physical whiteboard as the name suggests. It offers a range of features that you can use to design, save, share, and communicate content in a customizable workspace.

Whiteboard software is widely used by project management and design teams. Further, groups in any discipline can utilize a user-friendly and intuitive content sharing workspace. Most programs are standalone applications, but some are integrated into other visual collaboration or design software.
