Customer Success Report

Corporate LMS Category

A Corporate Learning Management System (LMS) helps a company to organize all its training materials. It can therefore be compared to a corporate intranet. These solutions focus on information storage, distribution, and sharing. For instance, if you make a video course on how to market your firm's products, each video can be made part of a standard learning track. The LMS can guide users throughout the track and help to evaluate their learning.

A Corporate LMS can also offer useful information such as calling scripts, customer success playbooks, product details, and more. In short, the platform provides a centralized location to store info and helps the enterprise focus on learning and development.
