“When we added the xTuple inventory control module, we weren't just adding a system, but changing the company culture and creating new procedures. Traceability is absolutely required in the food industry. A lot of the ingredients we use can get converted when in the finished product. You have to trace across those lots. xTuple does that for us very well.”

DANIEL BAROCO
IT MANAGER, CEDARLANE NATURAL FOODS

“xTuple ERP is used for faytech's sourcing, warehouse management, article management, production, capital management, as well as for writing invoices to faytech's customers.”

ARNE WEBER

“When I first encountered MISys at this company I looked at it and saw what looked like an older software application built by a small company. My experience has changed over the last 6 months as this software is easy to use, mostly intuitive and is extremely easy and straightforward to maintain. Also whenever I have had to reach out to the company, the service is phenomenal.”

MICHAEL
CEMTEK KVB-ENERTEC

“The cost investment in MISys is reasonable because you can purchase only the modules you need. We were, at one point, looking at systems four times the cost and much harder to implement and didn't know if we would realize all the benefits of the more complicated system. MISys was a good interim step.”

DAN NEUMANN
DIRECTOR OF SUPPLY CHAIN, APNICURE

“MISys is a very sophisticated product. The reports have saved me over and over. I never run out of supplies so I never lose time or money due to inventory miscalculations. MISys provides the information and reports I need to help me schedule ahead for production.”

REB SAULS
OPERATIONS MANAGER, BMI INTERNATIONAL

“I came from an SAP plant to a MISys plant. I like the smaller scale of MISys in conjunction with QuickBooks. It does everything we need at a smaller manufacturing facility, but doesn't limit our growth potential.”
