“Maybe there are some suppliers who we’ve worked with to improve those issues, but they don’t improve. They continue to fail. Well, that’s the time to go look for somebody else. And again, that can save us a lot of money and problems. That used to be a big risk for us because we often didn’t communicate adequately with them, so it’s critical to be able to catch these issues in real time, communicate it accurately and quickly without mistake, and without missing a facility. So TraceGains has really helped us tighten up that whole process. The same also applies with our vendors.”
