Customer Success Report

Identity & Access Management Software Category

Identity and access management (IAM) software enables you to define and manage the roles and access rights of individual network users, and control the circumstances in which users are given or denied those rights. These users may be staff members (employee identity management) or consumers (customer identity management). The main aim of IAM solutions is to establish a single digital identity for each individual and to maintain, modify, and monitor this identity across every user's access lifecycle.

In short, IAM software gives access to company IT assets to relevant users in the proper context, from user onboarding to a system to permission sanctions and finally user offboarding as required in a timely manner. With an IAM platform, admins can alter a user's role, monitor their activities, generate reports on the activities, and implement ongoing policies. The system enables admins to manage user access across the whole organization and to ensure compliance with government regulations and corporate policies.
